

How to add a yacht and where it shows up

A simple guide for the Feeling Yachty team. Follow the steps. Fill every box. Then check the guest pages so clients see the new boat right away.

Who this is for: anyone who adds or edits boats on FeelingYachty.com

HOW TO USE THIS GUIDE

Read in this order

Train on adding a yacht first. Settings are at the back on purpose. If you only add boats, you can stop before the pink “Managers only” pages.

Gather the facts

Name, photos, guests, marina, and trip totals — before you open WordPress.

Add the yacht

Create one record, pick the current Miami (or Panama) list, type prices as totals, then Publish.

Where it must appear

Admin list, yacht page, Miami or Panama catalog, pink page if pink, Book button, filters.

Change a boat later

Edit the same record. Never make a second yacht to “update” the first one.

Common mistakes

Wrong fleet, hourly prices, blank marina, fake guest counts, missing photos.

What this plugin does

Think of it like this

You are not writing a blog post. You are adding one boat to the shop. The plugin copies that boat onto the public site so guests can see it, compare prices, and book.

One yacht = one record

Add the boat once. Do not make a second copy “just in case.” Extra copies confuse guests and split the booking links.

Miami list to use: miami-yacht-rental (no extra “s”). The older list named miami-yacht-rentals is leftover. Do not add new boats there.

DO THIS FIRST

1 Gather this before you click Add

Do not open WordPress until you have these answers. Missing pieces make a half-page that guests cannot book.

You need	Example	Why
City	Miami or Panama	Puts the boat on the right catalog
Guest name for the boat	50ft Pink Maxum "Barbie"	What guests see on the card
Length and max guests	50 ft · 13 guests	Filters and safety
Brand + year + model	Maxum · 2008	Helps guests recognize the boat
Marina / pickup	Miami Beach Marina	Guests always ask "where do we go?"
Captain included?	Yes (almost always)	Leave Yes unless it is a true bareboat
Pink boat?	Yes / No	Shows in the pink yacht list
Free extra hour?	Pay 4, get 5	Shows the +1 Free Hour badge
Prices as totals	3h $1,100 · 4h $1,350 · 6h $1,850	What the card prints
5+ clear photos	Outside, deck, salon, sunset	First photo = the card picture
Owner / source note	Owner name or BookMyBoat id	For the office, not the guest

Name formula that always works: size + brand + nickname in quotes.

Good: 45ft Sea Ray "NO ETA" · Bad: Azimut (too many boats share that name) or titles with emojis and "from $1000".

Golden rule: Write prices as the total for that many hours (example: 4 hours = $800). Do not type an hourly rate next to "3 Hours." Guests will think the whole trip costs the hourly number.

THE MAIN LESSON

2 Add the yacht in WordPress

Log in to FeelingYachty.com WordPress. You need permission to edit Yachts. If you do not see Yachts in the left menu, ask a manager.

- 1 Open Yachts → Add New
Left menu: Yachts (sometimes under Feeling Yachty / Fleet). Click Add New. You are now making one boat record.
- 2 Type the public name
Use the formula: 50ft Pink Maxum “Barbie”. This name shows on the card, the page title, and texts to guests. No HTML codes. No emoji. No “cheap yacht rental Miami” in the title.
- 3 Set the featured photo, then the gallery
The featured photo is the catalog card. Use a bright, wide shot of the whole boat. Then add more photos to the gallery so the guest page has a slideshow.
- 4 Pick the fleet / city
Miami new boats → miami-yacht-rental.
Panama boats → panama-yacht-rentals (if that box is empty, stop and tell a manager — Panama may still live on older pages).
Do not tick both Miami lists. Do not use the old miami-yacht-rentals list for new boats.
- 5 Fill the spec boxes
Length (ft), Max guests, Year, Brand, Model. Turn Captain included on. Turn Pink on only if the boat is truly pink. Turn Free hour on only if the price table has a “pay 4 get 5” style deal.

Guests on a 26–32 ft boat: do not type 13 unless the boat is really licensed for 13. A small boat with “13 guests” looks wrong and can cause a fight at the dock.

STILL ADDING THE YACHT

2 Prices, marina, then Publish

1 Enter the price table as totals

Each row is one trip length and the full charter price guests pay for that length. Use a heading row for weekday vs weekend if prices change.

Duration	Price you type	Guest reads
3 Hours	1100	3 hours · $1,100
4 Hours	1350	4 hours · $1,350
6 Hours	1850	6 hours · $1,850
Pay for 4 Hours Get 5 Hours Total	1350	Pay 4, get 5 · $1,350

Weekday vs weekend: add a heading row like “Monday–Thursday” then the prices, then a heading “Friday–Sunday” then those prices. A weekend extra can be a note: Weekend surcharge — $150.

Pick the marina

Choose from the marina list (Dinner Key, Miami Beach Marina, Bill Bird / Haulover, and so on). Add a pickup note if guests need a gate or “meet at the white tent.” If you skip this, guests will call you.

Write a short guest blurb

3–5 sentences. Who it is for, what is on board, where it leaves. Do not paste a novel. Do not invent a price in the blurb that does not match the table.

Badges (optional)

Use only if they are true: Pink Yacht, +1 Free Hour, Bachelorette Favorite, Slide Available, New Yacht. Too many badges look like spam.

Click Publish — not Save Draft

Draft is invisible to guests. Publish makes the catalog card and the shop product. Then copy the public link and send it to yourself.

THIS IS THE PART PEOPLE FORGET

3 Where the yacht should appear

After Publish, open a private / incognito window (or log out) and check every place below. If one is missing, the boat is not finished.

Place	What you should see	If it is missing
Yacht list in WP Admin	Your new boat in Yachts , status Published	You saved a draft. Publish it.
The yacht's own page	Name, photos, price table, marina, Book button	Wait 1 minute, refresh hard. Still empty? Tell a manager — the product page may not have attached.
Miami catalog /miami-yacht-rental/	A card with photo, starting total, and your name	Wrong fleet box. Edit the yacht and tick miami-yacht-rental only.
Pink catalog /miami-pink-yacht-rentals/	The card, only if Pink is on	Turn Pink on. Add the Pink Yacht badge.
Fleet link /fleet/miami/your-boat-name/	Same boat, same prices	This is the link we prefer to text guests. If you also see a second link under /miami-yacht-rentals/...-4/ , tell a manager — do not keep both.
Panama catalog /panama-yacht-rentals/	Panama boats only	Miami boats must never show here. If a Panama boat does not show, it may still live on older Panama pages — ask before making a second copy.
Shop / Book button	Deposit checkout with the same name and photo	The plugin creates a WooCommerce product automatically. If Book is dead, the product is draft or unlinked.
Search / filters on the hub	Shows up when guests pick the right size, pink, or price chip	Length, pink flag, or starting price is blank. Fill those boxes.

Text this to the group chat after you add a boat: name, public link, 4-hour total, marina, max guests. If you cannot fill that text, the listing is not ready for clients.

AFTER IT IS LIVE

4 How to change a yacht later

Always edit the same yacht record. Do not add a new yacht to “update” an old one.

Change a price

Yachts → find the boat → edit the price row → Update. Then open the guest card and confirm the new total. If a weekly sheet also pushes prices, tell the person who owns that sheet so you do not overwrite each other.

Change photos

Replace the featured image if the card should change. Add or remove gallery photos for the page. Guests judge the boat in 2 seconds — blurry first photos lose the booking.

Hide a boat for a while

Set status to Draft or unpublish. Do not delete unless a manager says so. Deleting can break old links guests already saved.

Sold, renamed, or moved marina

Edit the same record. Keep the same public link if you can. Changing the name a little is fine. Making a brand-new page loses reviews and old ads.

Quick “is it good?” checklist

- ✓ Name is size + brand + nickname. No duplicate “Azimut” with no nickname.
- ✓ First photo is clear. At least 4 more photos on the page.
- ✓ City/fleet is the current Miami list or Panama — not both Miami lists.
- ✓ Guest count is honest for that size boat.
- ✓ Captain is on, unless it is truly bareboat.
- ✓ Every price is a trip total, not an hourly rate sitting next to “3 Hours.”
- ✓ Marina is filled. You could tell a guest where to stand.
- ✓ You opened the guest page while logged out and the Book button works.
- ✓ You sent the link + 4-hour price + marina in the team chat.

PLEASE DO NOT DO THESE

Common mistakes

Mistake	What happens	Do this instead
Adding the boat twice	Two cards, two prices, angry guests	Search Yachts for the name first
Putting it on the old Miami list	Boat never shows on the main catalog	Use miami-yacht-rental only
Typing hourly in the 3-hour box	Card can show $3,583 when the trip is $10,750	Type the full trip price
Leaving marina blank	Inbox fills with “where do we meet?”	Pick a marina every time
13 guests on a 26 ft boat	Looks fake and can be unsafe	Use the real licensed number
Title with emoji and “from $1000”	Looks like an ad, not a boat	Clean name. Prices live in the table
Pink flag off on a pink boat	Missing from the pink page guests love	Turn Pink on + Pink Yacht badge
Publishing with no photo	Empty gray card. Guests skip it	Featured image before Publish

Need help? Do not guess. Ask the person who owns the website before changing fleets, deleting boats, or editing settings on the last pages of this guide.

LEAVE THIS FOR LAST

Every box on the yacht screen

Staff who only add boats can stop before these pink “Managers only” pages. This table is the full yacht record. Fill what you know. Leave office-only boxes for a manager if you are unsure.

Box you will see	What to put	Where guests see it
Title	Size + brand + nickname	Card, page, texts, shop
Featured image	Best wide photo of the whole boat	Catalog card
Gallery	5+ extra photos	Yacht page slideshow
Fleet / category	miami-yacht-rental or panama-yacht-rentals	Which catalog the card sits on
Tags	Optional search words (party, sunset)	Can help filters / search
Length (ft)	Real length	Card, filters, “50ft” in the name
Max guests	Licensed number, not a default 13	Card and filters
Year / brand / model	As on the boat papers	Specs on the yacht page
Captain included	On, unless bareboat	Guest page and sales notes
Pink yacht	On only if the hull is pink	Pink catalog + pink badge
Free extra hour	On only if the deal is real	+1 Free Hour badge
Price table rows	Trip totals, headings, notes	Price panel on the yacht page
Starting / hourly price	Do not pair an hourly number with “3 Hours”	Can leak onto cards — keep it honest
Price note	“4-hour weekday charter”	Small print under the price
Weekend / crew / fuel / service	Extra fees if they are charged	Notes near the price
Marina	Pick from the shared list	Map / meetup line
Guest blurb	3–5 honest sentences	Yacht page story
Badges	Only true tags	Pills on the card
Add-ons	Jet ski, decor, chef — with prices	Extras on the yacht page
Blackout dates	Days the boat cannot sail	Stops a bad booking date
Reviews	Real guest quotes only	Review block on the page
Search terms	Nicknames people type	Helps the hub search box
Owner / SKU / source id	Office tracking	Not shown to guests
SEO title / description	Leave to a manager if empty	Google snippet

WHOLE-SITE CONTROLS

Fleets, marinas, badges, shop

These controls change the whole website. Wrong clicks can hide the fleet or break booking messages.

Fleets (cities / lists)

Fleet name you will see	Use it for miami-yacht-rental	All new Miami boats. This is the public catalog.
miami-yacht-rentals (older)	Leftover list. Do not add new boats. A manager should merge or hide it.
panama-yacht-rentals	Panama boats inside the plugin. If the count is zero, Panama may still be on older pages — do not duplicate them.

Marinas

The plugin keeps a shared marina list (Dinner Key, Miamarina, Bill Bird, Crandon, and many more — about 58). Add a marina here once. Then every yacht can pick it. Do not type a one-off address on each boat if the marina already exists.

Badges

Styles guests see: hot party/value tags, pink Pink Yacht, free +1 Free Hour. Keep the list short. Inventing new badge names every week makes the site look messy.

WooCommerce / Book button

Each published yacht is tied to one shop product. The product page is filled by the plugin (you may see a tiny `fy-auto` note). Do not empty that product. Do not create a second product by hand for the same boat.

Do not rename fleet slugs

Guest links and filters use those names. Renaming miami-yacht-rental can hide the whole Miami catalog overnight.

OFFICE TOOLS & IF IT BREAKS

Sync, bookings, and what not to click

Prices that update from a sheet

A weekly automation can push prices from the office Google Sheet into the plugin. If you edit a price in WordPress and it “jumps back,” the sheet won. Change the sheet or WordPress, then tell the team which one is the source of truth.

Bookings and tickets

When a guest pays, the plugin can send a signed message to the office tools (GoHighLevel). That is why paid bookings show up for sales without anyone copying and pasting. Do not rotate secret keys or webhook URLs unless you are the person who set them up.

What you should not click

Do not delete

Fleets, marinas, yachts with old guest links, or the Suite plugin itself.

Do not “test off”

Turning off WooCommerce or Suite kills every Book button on the site.

Do not add another chat

Chat is handled somewhere else on purpose. Do not add a second chat widget here.

Do not invent a second boat

If a listing looks broken, fix the original. A duplicate makes the problem worse.

If something looks broken

1. Confirm the yacht is Published and on the current Miami (or Panama) fleet.
2. Confirm featured photo + at least one price row + marina.
3. Open the guest link logged out.
4. If the page is blank, the shop product may have lost its automatic content — a manager must re-attach it.
5. Still stuck? Send the yacht name, the admin link, and the guest link to the website owner. Do not create a duplicate boat while you wait.
